- The BFLP 2023 Data Science training program aims to guide participants to become proficient data scientists in organizations, especially in the Audit department, with a strong understanding of the Python programming language.
- With a learn-by-building approach, participants will learn how to develop machine learning algorithms, as well as how to integrate them into business applications. After completing the training, participants will be ready and able to take on responsibilities as a data scientist in a professional environment.

Our modules

- Pre Class

Introduction of the program and module installation guideline

Data Science Capstone project

- Participants will use datasets which related to Banking industry to implement their knowledge during training program
- Participants will be divided into individual or groups and Mentor will be assigned to help supervise the project development
- Mentor will help to give consultation during capstone project
- By the end of the program, participants should submit the capstone project report to Algoritma

Scoring Criteria

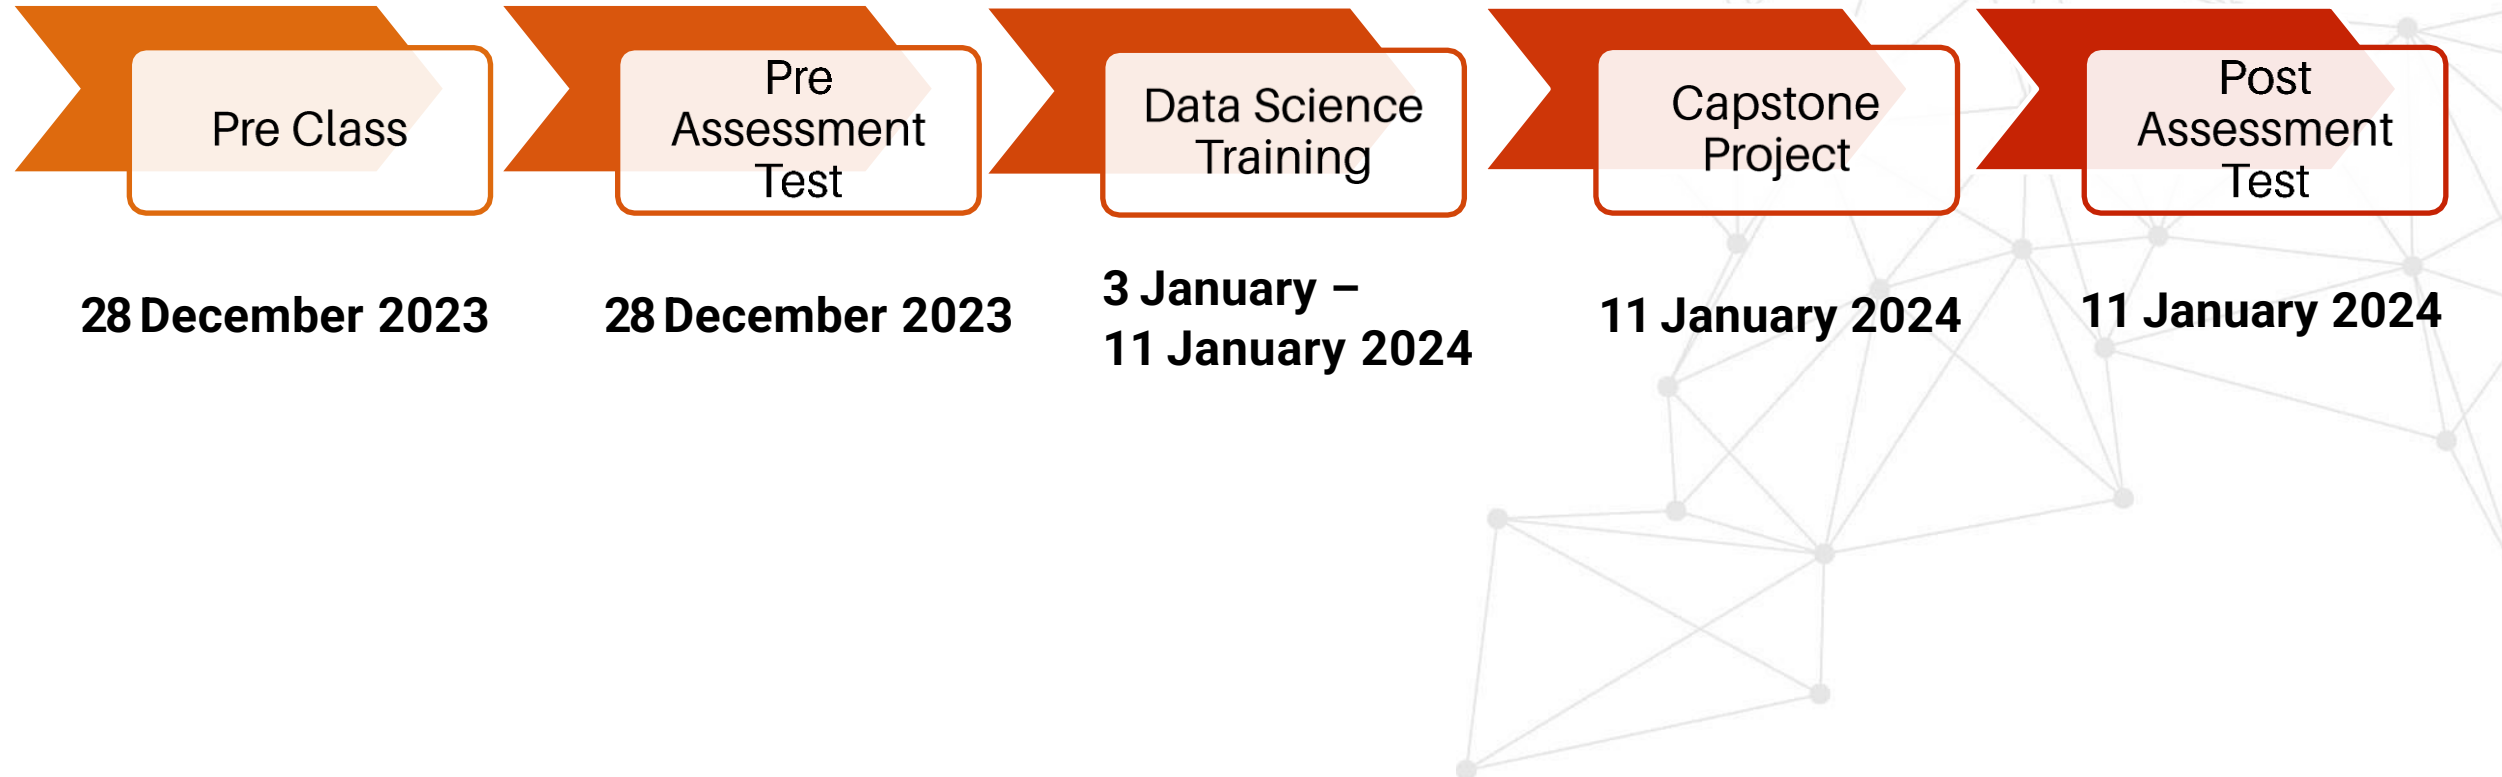

Participants are encouraged to obtain a minimum score of 77.5 points during the Data

Science program, which consists of several assessments :
